Human Security as Statecraft: Structural Conditions, Articulations and Unintended Consequences (Routledge Critical Security Studies) By Nik Hynek

This book critically investigates the discourses and practices of human security and aims to delve below the stereotypical imageries representing them.

Drawing on Foucault and Deleuze, the author approaches human security from a new perspective, with the aim of ascertaining what has been behind and underneath a certain spatio-temporal articulation of human security, and with what political implications and consequences. Each human security assemblage is composed of messy discourses and practices which are loosely related and sometimes even disconnected. This book examines the Canadian and Japanese articulations of human security and establishes the kinds of structural terrains have enabled, shaped, or blocked the unfolding of these versions of human security. The pivotal contention of the book is that Canadian and Japanese articulations of human security have been different because they have grown from completely different domestic economies of power governing the relationship between the state apparatus and the non-profit and voluntary sector. While the Canadian human security assemblage has been shaped by transformations in the country's advanced liberal model of government, the Japanese has been shaped by the continuities of Japan's bureaucratic authoritarianism. A novel approach is employed for the related process-tracing: a general series linking structural conditions with actual articulations of the human security projects, and their further development, including analysis of their unintended consequences.

This book will be of much interest to students of Critical Security Studies, human security, global governance, foreign policy and IR/Security studies.

Jason Nimmons:

As a student exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher asked them to go to the library as well as to make summary for some guide, they are complained. Just minor students that has reading's spirit or real their pastime. They just do what the professor want, like asked to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading seriously. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring and also can't see colorful photographs on there. Yeah, it is to get complicated. Book is very important in your case. As we know that on this period, many ways to get whatever we would like. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this Human Security as Statecraft: Structural Conditions, Articulations and Unintended Consequences (Routledge Critical Security Studies) can make you experience more interested to read.
