The Construal of Spatial Meaning: Windows into Conceptual Space (Explorations in Language and Space) By Carita Paradis, Jean Hudson, Ulf Magnusson

This book considers how language users express and understand literal and metaphorical spatial meaning not only in language but also through gesture and pointing. Researchers explore the ways in which theoretical developments in language and cognition, new empirical techniques, and new computational facilities have led to a greater understanding of the relationship between physical space and mental space as expressed in human communication.

Editorial Review

About the Author

Carita Paradis is Professor of English Linguistics at the Centre for Languages and Literature at Lund University, Sweden. Her main research interests concern meaning in the broad sense. She specializes in lexical semantics and the modelling of meaning within the Cognitive Linguistics framework. She combines corpus methods and experimental methods in her work.

Jean Hudson is Professor of English Linguistics at Malmo University, Sweden. The focus of her research efforts is on the empirical investigation of spontaneous speech data in the search for insights into the relationship between language and cognition. She is currently investigating prepositional usage within the general framework of construction grammar.

Ulf Magnusson is Emeritus Professor of English at Lulea University of Technology, Sweden, and previously held posts as Professor of English and University Lecturer at Hogskolan Kristianstad, Sweden. Magnusson's interests are mainly in English lexicography, metaphor, and cognitive linguistics.
