For Honor: An Adventure of What Might Have Been (by Honor Bound) By Kat Jaske

Fellow adventurers,
Imagine yourself in France, in the time of the musketeers, when honor defines who you are. It is 1638. It is a time of intrigue and violence.

France does not suspect the diabolical forces scheming to overthrow and split Europe between Richelieu and the king of England. Nor does young Lady Laurel, a master fencer, suspect she might be plunged into the perilous position of saving France from a highly placed traitor when her father's work—as a talented and powerful spy for France—follows him home.

Meet the musketeers. Be swept up in this battle. Laugh with them; ride with them; fight for all you hold dear with them as they race against time to save France and their king, and to come to terms with the lady musketeer who insinuates herself into their tight-knit group.

Delve into a new, modern look at the adventures of the musketeers, with characters who will become a part of your life. A story you can't put down until the unforgettable conclusion.

Like James Michener, Kat Jaske understands that the best way to get readers interested in history is to bring the past to life with brilliant stories and characters." - Dave Lieber, Fort Worth Star-Telegram

269 pages in trade paperback format.

Historical fiction.

Selected by Green Valley High School in Las Vegas as the book of the year for the Reading Incentive Program.

Editorial Review

Review

I just finished your book (For Honor) and absolutely loved it! -- Linda Lipsitt - School administrator

Jaske does a masterful job of evoking appropriate atmosphere and is highly skilled at character development. -- ForewardReviews.com

Kat's really good at creating characters you care about almost instantly. -- Hillary Campbell - professional editor

My reward was a wonderful reading experience and a renewed love for this time period.

The secular market is richer for this book being on the shelves, it is still a "cleaner" novel than is generally found these days. -- Christian Book Previews.com

These are the best fiction books I have read in a few years. They are extremely well-written and put-together. Raymond Shannon from Ireland -- Raymond Shannon - Ireland

From the Author

My friends,

Come with me to France, to the time of the musketeers, when honor is everything. Meet the musketeers. Laugh with them; ride with them, fight for your life with them. Weep with them. It's 1638. You are there. France does not suspect the evil forces working within to shatter the tranquility, to split the spoils for evil's own gain.

But this is no ordinary story, as circumstances conspire to plunge the young lady, master fencer into the fateful position of saving France from the traitor. She cannot do it alone, but she will be a part of the battle. Feel the emotions of the musketeers as they are swept up in this battle. Can they accept a woman as an equal? Can they protect her. Should they protect her. Do they care? Be careful, as you cannot stop once you begin. Fate has spoken.

About the Author

Kat Jaske is an English and French teacher in Las Vegas where her high school selected her novel, For Honor, as the featured book for the Reading Incentive Program.

Her writing transports you to another time and place, where you meet your new friends as her brilliant character development brings the characters to life. Her books are all adult level, but are clean books. The author feels a good writer does not have to resort to cheap tactics to try to interest the reader. The story and the characters are so powerful that amateur ways to try to get reader attention are not needed or used.

Jaske is a national award-winning poet. She earned certificates from Jean Paul Valéry University in France after studying in Montpellier, France; has a master's of education, and speaks fluent French.

She truly enjoys writing. Other hobbies are fencing, singing, and playing piano, and she is an avid runner who helped her Upper Arlington High School team win the Ohio cross-country state championship.

She is currently active in fencing, and is training with the saber.
